Salvage

Mildred was a very happy young bride, for there was, first of all, her new husband—not that she had ever had any other, but, as she termed it, he was her nice, new, shiny husband. And there was the new flat. It was a lovely place when everything was taken into consideration. Of course it was not quite as new as it might have been, and there were stains to be taken care of and ashes to be carried out and it was a long way to the store and to the city, but she had her husband, who was so willing to help with the dishes and to run down to the store for groceries and to carry out ashes and carry in coal. Then there was the furniture, particularly the bedroom suite, which was of beautiful mahogany. It was her pride and joy. The rest of the furniture didn't matter. What difference was it to anyone if the parlor chairs didn't match colors? Or why should it matter if the dining table didn't match the chairs? She still had her bedroom set. Not that this has anything to do with this story.

And there were other reasons why she should be happy. For how many brides get to enjoy two honeymoon years? There had been one honeymoon just before Herbert enlisted, and, of course, there had been a long honeymoon period of anxious worry while he was away, but there had been another honeymoon upon his return that outshone the first one by far.

First of all they found a flat. Then came a happy time of planning, shopping and spending until it was furnished. And there were many beautiful presents from understanding friends who gave actual things for the flat.

When it was all over and Herbert had gone back to work there was very little money in the domestic treasury. But it did not matter, for they were very happy.

But as the days turned into weeks and the weeks into months, there came a little speck of unhappiness on the horizon, for a peculiar characteristic cropped out in her husband. It was something she could not understand.

"It was 'all on account of the war,' that had taken away her loved one and returned him a changed man. When Herbert came back he told her very little of the actual fighting, though he had seen much of it. He did tell about camp life, marching bands, soldier songs, soldier slang and other features of military life, but very little about actual fighting. One feature he particularly enjoyed telling about was the salvaging done by the soldiers.

Her 'old' of the various salvaging methods of the various armies, which recovered and resold millions of dollars' worth of valuable materials, then told the soldiers themselves did occasional 'salvaging' which was another term for 'stealing,' 'borrowing' or any other form of mild stealing which is required by the necessities of soldier equipment. Of course, it was all more or less playful, and, as he carefully explained, was not stealing—merely 'salvaging.' He tried to make her see a difference between the two terms, but she did not like to have him tell about his 'salvaging' experiences.

This was not, however, what made her unhappy. The real difficulty was that Herbert continued his salvaging habits in domestic life. It all came about very abruptly one night when he disappeared from the flat without saying a word, only to return in about fifteen minutes with an old battered dishpan. He held it up proudly as he came into the parlor and explained that he had seen it in a back yard a few blocks down the street. He didn't like to stop and pick it up in daylight, so he went back at night.

"I'll just take a hammer and smooth out these dents," he explained, "and it will be almost as good as new." After considerable pounding he had restored it fairly well, but Mildred was not entirely pleased with the pun and did not like to use it, even after it had been smoothed and scrubbed, for as she explained to her neighbor, Mrs. Orville, "Who knows where it has been or what it has been used for?"

Mildred kept her old pan in the kitchen for fear of hurting Herbert's feelings, but she did not use it, even though she needed a larger dishpan.

From time to time there were other salvaging operations. A week or so after the dishpan incident, Herbert came into the kitchen one evening after a mysterious absence with an old washboard. Now Mildred already had a good washboard, and told Herbert so, but he had been unable to resist his salvaging propensities. Of course the zinc was broken in one place, but Herbert got busy with the hammer and a few tacks. After a little pounding he declared it to be "almost good as new." Mildred left the old washboard in the basement next day and said nothing more about it.

Salvaging became more regular after that and Mildred became unhappy and actually dreaded to see Herbert leave the house, and sometimes she thought she would scream when he dragged in some battered, old castaway which he made almost good as new, littering her floor in the process.

Finally she confided in Mrs. Orville, the neighbor across the hall. Now, Mrs. Orville was middle-aged, and had seen much of the world. After hearing Mildred's troubles she smiled and patted her little hands, then made a few suggestions, to which Mildred listened attentively and left, feeling better than she had in weeks. But there was still a battered old chair that Herbert dragged in one evening when she was alone. It occupied a prominent place in the kitchen, which she disfigured the room—was a eyesore. In fact, Mildred resented with difficulty the temptation to throw it out.

And she was so full of sympathy, and a clothing that he had 'salvaged' each a back yard one night, but the kindly advice of Mrs. Orville cheered her greatly.

Several days went by before Herbert went out on another salvaging expedition. This time he returned with a battered old coal scuttle, which he displayed joyfully, announcing that it would be "almost like new" when he fixed it in a little. Mildred did not become fearful, nor did she feel like screaming. Instead she smiled and said: "That's splendid. We have two coal scuttles already, but I suppose we can save it until we need one. And I want to tell you the good news. I did some salvaging myself. See, here's a necktie for you. It isn't very pretty now, and I'll have to brush off the ashes, and clean it and press it, but it will be almost as good as new when it's done."

Herbert seemed surprised and somewhat dubious, but he said nothing as she set about making over the tie, which was an old one of Mr. Orville's which she had covered with ashes herself. When she had brushed and cleaned, and pressed the old tie it was a sleeky looking thing at best, but she presented it boldly and demanded praise. Next morning she made Herbert take off the nice new tie he 'salvaged' and substituted the salvaged one. If made her feel that afterward, but she pressed her lips together and determined to see the thing through.

There was no more salvaging for more than a week, but when Herbert did disappear mysteriously one night Mildred was waiting for him with an old pair of shoes she had picked up in an alley. Herbert entered the parlor and hid a pair of battered shoes. Mildred produced the shoes. She said: "Beat you to it again, here's an old pair of shoes for you. I think they are just your size, and after they are cleaned and brushed I'll have the shoe maker can patch them so that they will be as good as new."

But that there was no more salvaging. As Mildred said, "I Herbert lived happily with that first quarrel."

The new women's institutes act, which puts all women's organizations on the same footing with regard to extension work carried on by this branch of the agricultural department has been passed by the house, with considerable debate.

The Tally

It isn't the job we intended to do
Or the labor we've just begun,
That puts us right on the ledger sheet
It's the work we have really done.
Our credit is built upon things we do,
Our debt on things we shirk.
The man who totals the biggest plus,
Is the man who completes his work.
Good intentions do not pay bills,
It's easy enough to plan,
To wish in the play of an office boy,
To do the job of a man.
—Richard Lord

The April issue of Rod and Gun in Canada is a particularly attractive one, and from cover to cover it abounds in bright, interesting features. The stories include a splendid contribution from the pen of Frank Houghton, entitled "The Trail of a Golden Hope," while "Birds," by Phil H. Moore, is also worthy of a special mention. Bonny Castle Dale is the author of "Our Wild Decays." The various departments contain a wealth of valuable information, as usual. A complete report of the annual meeting of the Northern Ontario Outfitters and Guides, is given. A handsome art cover by F. V. Williams, who also contributes a short story, will likewise attract attention to this month's issue. Rod and Gun in Canada is published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, monthly.

Soldier Settlement and Irrigation

Irrigation is coming into its own in Western Canada. Pioneers of the older provinces began with an axe and an ox team and were skeptical of the farmers becoming their own rain makers. Now the irrigated districts such as the Okanagan Valley, British Columbia, not long since a desert, bloom like a rose through the vitalizing wealth of the waters of irrigation. A large acreage that is now being won from nature is the soldiers' settlement land in the Southern Okanagan, a 1,200 acre tract that is of national interest because of its strategic location and the engineering skill required to make it of service to the soldier settlers. A motor trip through the settlement, revealed a country in scenic beauty, interesting in old land marks and marvellous in present activity of transforming a wilderness into a garden. It lies in a lovely valley, extending from Vaseux Lake to the International Boundary. The northern part of the settlement is 22 miles from Pendleton.

(1) Intake gates and dam on Okanagan River.
(2) Main canal, near Intake.

Water for irrigation is supplied from the Okanagan river, which, at point of diversion, is about three-quarters of a mile below Vaseux Lake and has a width of 200 feet. A concrete dam raises the surface of the water 8 feet. The system has been built in a very permanent way with concrete lined ditches which prevent seepage losses, concentration of mineral salts and water logging. The canal is 18 feet wide on top, five and a half feet deep and capable enough to run a boat with a flow of 170 cubic feet per second. Eleven miles of the project is finished, 11 miles partly done and when finished, 22 miles of canal will be built to the boundary. From the varying disposition of the topography, many engineering problems and difficulties arise—problems that were unique in engineering in America. Various experiments had to be resorted to which included the use of great wood stave pipes and riveted steel pipes, some 30 inches in diameter.

An example of the immensity of the task as well as of the engineering skill required is the construction of thirteen flumes in the nine miles from the intake to the cement pipe works. There will be about 1,200 acres of irrigable land in the valley and the land is being developed under the most favorable conditions.

with an ample supply of water. A plant for the manufacture of concrete pipes is one of the extensive industries of the settlement. Twelve miles of pipe will be built this season by 50 men, with an output of 600 feet of piping a day. A portion of the land was put on sale last spring and about 600 acres sold. The first orchard was planted by Percy Simpson, a returned soldier, belonging to the construction camp.

The town of Oliver will be the administrative centre of the district. It is one of the few planned towns in Canada and is not being developed in a haphazard way with speculation in sub-divisions. The Government have placed on the market just what is needed, and this will be sold off before further land is open for sale. There are areas for a park, for a city hall, for a school, for various public buildings and space for all that is required for an up-to-date town.

The Oliver recreation grounds are across the river from the town, the present site of the big irrigation construction camp. The young men built a permanent recreation hall after being supplied with lumber and various requirements by the government. An athletic association was formed and now the hall is a fine structure, 60 by 70 feet for an up-to-date town.

As a centre for concerts, dances, basketball and general sport. A demonstration plot has been established about five miles south of Oliver, on the main highway where 24 acres are now under cultivation with six acres in young trees which will be sold to the soldier settlers.

Leaving Pendleton, on our trip to Oliver, each interest beckoned to a fresh delight. Winding in among the hills, we saw around Dog Lake the steamer "Sylvia" on the lake. The railway, from Pendleton to Intake, will again at Okanagan Falls on the way to Oliver and the Boundary. Passing Vaseux Lake, through the stock raising country there was a wealth of beautiful scenery—the water lilies on the lake, the wild swans who make their home there all the year around, the overhanging rock on the motor road, all added to the beauty of the scene.

A point of interest was the big construction camp where we had dinner at the headquarters staff dining room. It is a regular settlement with even the hen and her little chickens a part of the scene. All men of the camp make their home here and it will be the place of the camp for the next two years. For the workmen there is an immense dining tent and 150 men are served at once.—G. G.

DUNLOP CORD TIRES FABRIC

"There's something in the Quality of Dunlop Tires that's missing from other tires. Don't know what it is, but when I make that quick stop I know instantly I have Dunlop Tires on!"

One motorist thus spoke for himself. He really was speaking for thousands of car owners.

Live Rubber and Best Egyptian Cotton go into Dunlop Cords and Fabrics. No shoddy, no skipping. The day of the short-mileage tire is gone; the day of the high-mileage tire is here; and when "live-mileage" is up for discussion now, you find the word "remarkable" generally precedes a reference to DUNLOP.

MILLET

A mass meeting will be held at Playon's hall on Saturday at 2.30, under the auspices of the U.P.A. Subject—Why are the cream stations being removed from Millet? Come one, come all, and register your kick.

Don't forget the play on Friday night at Playon's hall, "What Happened to Jones." Admission, Adults, 50c, children, 25c. Proceeds to be applied to the purchase of the school piano. Be early and get a seat. Particulars on program. Community dance after the show. Millet orchestra.

Anyone finding a basket on the Edmonton trail between Millet and Ledoux that was lost last Saturday, please leave same at Mitchell's.

The March meeting of the Millet W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. Dowling, nearly all the ladies being present.

A very profitable and entertaining paper on "Progress" had to be postponed at every moment, was taken up in selecting material and planning articles to be made for the bazaar to be held on April 17th.

Adjutant Burgess, of Edmonton, addressed the meeting on the urgent need of financial aid towards the up-keep of the rescue homes of the Salvation Army, and portrayed very vividly the blessing these homes are.

To his appeal for aid the ladies promised to do what they could (not blinding themselves to any certain amount) and they might count on the assistance of the town and other societies.

A very appetizing lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Dowling, assisted by Mesdames Christie, Dancy and Eastwood.

After some community singing, the meeting closed to meet again April 12th, in Millet.

smoked so many cigarettes he could put Kaiser's three points to the mat. Everywhere we find the same remarks. We must say that it is surprising how much interest is shown when a wrestling match is mentioned. The good sport of the long ago, where each is given a chance to show his strength, and no slipping up and getting slug goad unexpectedly. We are not here to say that our school system and our home systems and all other systems of the present day, the training of our sales are wrong, but we say that the verdict we hear on every corner is "I have no mind."

The new dance hall at Pigeon Lake was opened on the 24th, over 100 people taking advantage of the occasion. The Boosters are going to have a tennis court this summer.

The Women's Institute of Millet are having a combination dance, tea and royal bazaar on Monday, April 17th. The bazaar starts at three o'clock. Afternoon tea, novelty shows and the dance at night. This bazaar will be the largest held in Millet for a long time. You will be able to buy anything you want. Every lady in the community is busy sewing.

Dance extraordinary April 17th, at Playon's hall.

The early closing bylaw is causing a lot of fun. The council are just sitting back and taking notes. All the arguments, the words of the law, will not get away from facts. The facts are in an extraordinary form in today's issue of The Times and those facts will be strictly adhered to. The days of the country store keeping open all the hours are made is fast passing away and the sooner we get out of the woods the better. The early closing law will happen and very soon.

March is surely going out like a lion but we shall soon forget its blustering ways, for already the pussy-whiffers are peeping out, the buds are swelling and if we were only there where the sugar maple grows, we should discover another harbinger of spring.

Henry Soudash has moved on to his new farm four miles north of town. The lupine-infested epidemic still has quite a number in its grasp. We are glad that there has been no casualties.

Mrs. A. J. Heywood spent the week end in hospital, to visit little Margaret in the St. Mary's hospital, where she is progressing favorably. Her sister, Miss Alberta Haste, teacher in the normal school is leaving this week for Chicago, where she will take a post graduate course.

The services on Sunday April 2nd will be held at Porto Bello, 11 a.m.; West Liberty, 3.30 p.m.; Millet church, 7.30 p.m. with Sunday school at 11.00 a.m.

A record attendance at Sunday school was made here last Sunday when sixty-four members were counted by the secretary, Henry Stuart.

Get the habit and come to Sunday school and church services. We need your presence and help.

A Sunday school banquet is expected at the end of April, the end of the conference year.

The Trail Tangers will meet this week in the church on Friday at 4 p.m. for reorganization. Every day from 12 to 16 years should be present.

The Shaw's of Millet, were given a surprise on the 15th when a big crowd of the youngsters of the neighborhood gathered to celebrate the birthdays of Miss Shaw and Miss Barnes. The Walsenland band and Barnes' orchestra were present to furnish the music.

The girls were not quite old enough in order that everyone present could have the pleasure of lighting a candle. After games and solos the crowd dispersed, wishing the girls a long, happy and prosperous life. The jig danced by Mr. Shaw, and Miss Barnes was enjoyed very much. Mr. Shaw said that it brought to his memory the good old days down east in Ontario.

One of the best programs that has ever been staged in Millet will be put on in Playon's hall on April 7. We contend that it will be best from three angles, namely, educationally, physically and morally. The great educators of the world have always contended that one's development in life should be above the three senses.

The writer has been asked to put on a preliminary act of twelve and one-half minutes. The great educators of the world have always contended that one's development in life should be above the three senses.

We have looked all over Millet, gone east of Millet, and west as far as Pigeon Lake, all to no avail. The question has been asked, "Where are the school eyes?" (Gym eyes) are unable to find it. It is impossible to find in a ton mile radius of Millet 12 or 16 year olds sufficiently trained, who would be proud to go on the stage in a friendly wrestling match for a few minutes of fun. We hear this question on every corner, if so and so had a little more wind he could make Kaiser go home, and if so and so had not

BAD HEADACHES FOR TWO YEARS

Mrs. Ernest Farquhar, Rose St., Dartmouth, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled for two years with bad headaches and tried many different remedies, but found no relief. I was telling a friend of mine about the bad pains in my head and she told me to try Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills. I had tried many pills and powders, but I think I would give your pills a trial. I took one and was quite pleased with them so I took two more, and now I don't feel any headaches or dizziness. I am very thankful to Lax-Liver Pills and I can recommend them to everyone."

IN SENATE UNTIL
B.N.A. ACT CHANGED

Montreal, Mar. 28.—The department of justice has issued an official ruling that no woman senators can be created in Canada without an amendment to the British North America Act. The official declaration is that under the B.N.A. act as it now stands, it is not competent for the governor general to summon any female persons to the senate.

The ruling was made in response to an inquiry made by Premier Mackenzie King, who had received a request from the finance committee of the Montreal Women's Club asking that the admission of Lady Rhonda's claim to a seat in the house of lords, Canadian women might be admitted to the senate, and whether an amendment to the B.N.A. act would be necessary.

H. W. WOOD SAYS
WHEAT BOARD IS ALMOST CERTAIN

In the opinion of H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, the prospects are quite favorable for the establishment of the Canadian wheat board. "The government seems very interested and anxious to get all the information it can," he said.

In reply to a question, Mr. Wood said the idea of the board in the first place was to get the full market value of the wheat—that, as a matter of fact, it was not a question of securing the same price that farmers received for their wheat when the late board was in existence. "With Jim Stewart as head of the board, their would be every prospect of farmers getting the full market price," he remarked.

The president of the U.F.A. said that the whole thing was now up to the government. If a board was appointed, it could handle it in 1923 crop.

In further commenting on the board Mr. Wood said that on account of the conditions of agriculture and the wheat market, there was a very much greater demand for the establishment of the board, there was a much more urgent necessity for it than ever had been.

"A board is the only method by which the farmers can hope to get any immediate relief from present conditions in the sale of their wheat," he said. Mr. Wood said the government seemed to be anxious to do what it could in the matter.

HIS MAJESTY THE KING
MAY BE SUED IN COURT

Edmonton, Mar. 28.—The old maxim that the King can do no wrong, and may not be sued in the courts, appears to have been exploded, and for the first time. The appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta has decided that the subject has the right to proceed against His Majesty for a tort and to recover the damages.

By this decision of Chief Justice Scott, Justices S. Beck, Hyndman, Clarke and Stewart, sitting as the appellate division here, John Zornes will be permitted to proceed against the King and the provincial treasurer for the recovery of $25,000 damages, which he alleges he sustained through the negligence of the telephone department of the province in allowing wires to be strung over the road, upsetting his car in the darkness of the night. Bryce G. Hamilton, who was a passenger with Zornes, will also sue for $5,000 damages.

The accident, in which these two men suffered damages occurred last summer, as they were travelling from Tofield to Edmonton by automobile. The government wires were down, and it appears that the wheels of their car got caught up in them, and they were violently hurled to the ground, Zornes sustaining permanent injuries to his spine and Hamilton a broken wrist and other injuries.

These men, through their solicitors, Clarke and Wallace, entered action for the recovery of damages, and when the case came to trial before Mr. Justice Ives they were not permitted to proceed. His Lordship holding that the King or his agents could not be sued.

Solicitors for the plaintiffs carried the matter to the appellate division, contending under the provisions of the public utilities act, that all public utilities were responsible for all unnecessary damages. The telephone department, it was urged, was a public utility, and in view of that fact the King was liable for damages.

Mr. Justice Stuart wrote a lengthy judgment on the appeal in which he upheld the contention of the plaintiffs' solicitors, and says the telephone department of this province is an organization under His Majesty, that it is a public utility within the meaning of the act, and that this is one case where the right to sue should be given the subject of the realm. In this judgment, Chief Justice Scott and Mr. Justice Clarke concurred.

Mr. Justice Beck also wrote a long and exhaustive judgment, and declared that there was negligence on the part of the servants of the crown, and that the case was one that was clearly covered by subsection 2 of the public utilities act.

The case will now be referred back to the trial division of the supreme court that the damages claimed by these two men may be assessed.

Band—The "dough" and "whip" net races at the Banff carnival were among the most interesting of the sports programme. The races were run down the main street, ending in front of the hotels.

Several ladies entered teams, among them being Mrs. Drummond Davis, Mrs. Jim Brewster and Mrs. William Brewster. There is plenty of dog life in Banff. Every youngster seems to have a dog. Many of these faithful and willing animals draw their little masters round in little cutters and some wear around of themselves. One small dog drives a team of two, and comes galloping down Banff Avenue in thrilling style.

Whippet racing in Western Canada is a comparatively new sport, and to Banff belongs the credit of starting it a few years ago at the carnival.

Montreal.—Two free scholarships covering four years' tuition in mechanical, chemical, civil, mechanical or electrical engineering at McGill University, are offered by the Canadian Pacific Railway, subject to competitive examination, to answer, and other employees enrolled on the permanent staff of the Company and wage twenty-one years of age, and to minor sons of employees.

A traveller for the Western Home Monthly calling himself D. Blowing of Edmonton, took French leave from the Imperial Hotel, Alx, on Tuesday of last week forgetting an $11 board bill. To gain time he slipped the bolt on the handle of the door with the aid of a string passed through the transom, and when the proprietor had tumbled to the trick the "Jumper" was happy on his way. However the police are on the trail of the "scurrier" and will no doubt give him a little more free board in the near future—Eyen Press.

Mrs. Jas. Henderson of Edmonton is in the city this week renewing old acquaintances.
